Freedman's Latest Assertions Exelte Comment-Chances to Strengthen That Were Allowed to Silp-Moffatt Wins a Fight With His Arm in a Sling.

Baseball men were discussing a statement made yesterday by Freedman to the effect that he had a contract with Edward Hanlon to manage the New Yorks for two years for a lump sum of $25,000, and that he will spend $100,000 to strengthen the local team. Also that the New York club has always been ready to spend big money for players, but that the other clubs have refused to sell. The facts in the Hanlon case conflict somewhat with Freedman's assertion. Some time ago Hanlon was asked to meet Freedman and Brush at the former's office. The Brooklyn manager complied with the request and received an offer to manage the New Yorks, said to have been $25,000 for two years. Hanlon, who is a stockholder in the Brooklyn club, has been receiving $10,000 annually as manager of the Champions, and has been and is now under contract to remain in the service of F. A. Abell and H. R. Von der Horst, the principal owners of the club.

Hanlon informed Freedman and Brush that if they could secure the consent of Abell and Von der Horst, he would willingly sign a New York contract, but at the time Hanlon knew perfectly well that such consent would not be forthcoming. These alleged negotiations with Hanlor were carried on prior to the springing of the trust scheme in the League by which had it been carried through, the Brooklyn club would have been frozen out. It is to be inferred, therefore, that Freedman and Brush felt confident that they could force the Brooklyn Club to let Hanlon come to New York as soon as the screws were applied. But when A. G. Spalding were applied. But when A. G. Spalding knocked the trust scheme in the head, all chances for hammering Brooklyn into submission were lost. The story of Hanlon's offer from Freedman was published during the recent League meeting. In the presence of Abell and Ebbets, Hanlon said at that time to THE SUN man:

"Brush and Freedman tried to induce me to sign a contract with the New York club, but I refused, because I would not leave my partners in the Brooklyn club. While I should very much like to manage the New Yorks under certain circumstances I would not think of signing a contract as long as Freedman remains in control, even

I would not think of signing a contract as long as Freedman remains in control, even if the Brooklyn club allowed me to go, which is out of the question."

Abell, Von der Horst and Ebbets later that day laughed at the idea and said that the New York club could not have Hanlon at any price. They remarked that the Brooklyn club would go out of business first. The New York club proceeded to send a contract to Hanlon, however. The document has never been signed by him and will not be. As far as Freedman's statement, that he has $100,000 to spend for new players, is concerned, baseball cranks were asking yesterday why the for new players, is concerned, baseball cranks were asking yesterday why the New York club allowed Davis, Selbach, Hickman and Warner to get away to the American League when a slight increase in salary in the case of each would have prevented the jump, which has virtually wrecked the New York team. If it is true that Execution, has always been willing to that Freedman has always been willing to buy players at any cost, but has been unable to do so because other clubs have refused to sell, baseball cranks were also anxious to know yesterday why Freedman did not buy McGraw and Robinson two years ago for $10,000; also, why he did not purchase the release of Lave Cross from St. Louis two years ago for $3,000, instead of allow-ing the Brooklyn club to snap up this valu-player. a matter of fact in the past two years As a matter of fact in the past two years the New York club received from other clubs, without paying a penny for releases, Hickman, Bowerman, Selbach, Hawley, Buelow, Ganzel, Strang, Mercer, McBride, Alec Smith and O'Brien; which shows that Alec Smith and O'Brien; which shows that the other clubs have done their share to strengthen the local team. It is a matter of record, according to League club owners, that Freedman refused to put up a dollar for ball players and practically held up the League for the talent he received gratis. Freedman allowed Carrick, Mercer, Grady, Hawley and Gleason to go to the American League, when by meeting their salary League, when by meeting their salary demands he could have retained their services. Since the New Yorks passed into Freedman's hands the team has been managed by these men in chronological managed by these men in chronological order: George Davis, Jack Doyle, Harvey Watkins, Arthur Irwin, Bill Joyce, A. C. Anson, Bill Joyce, John B. Day, Fred Hoey, Buck Ewing and George Davis. With this array of talent in mind, the question naturally arises: "How long would Hanlon last?"

Brooklyn's veteran pitcher, "Roaring Bill" Kennedy, has been released outright. Kennedy was signed by the late C. H. Byrne pitching with remarkable fortitude. He always depended upon speed and at one time had control that no pitcher in the country could excel. He was re-leased, according to President Ebbets, because he refused to accept Brooklyn's terms last fall, and a chance was therefore offered him to go where he might see fit

A DENIAL BY HANLON. Morally Bound to Brooklyn Club Until

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8 .- Ned Hanlon to-day President Freedman of the New York Baseball Club, in which Freedman is quoted as saying: "I have a contract with Ned Hanlon now, which he accepted. I offered Hanlon now, which he accepted. I offered Hanlon $25,000 for a two-year contract to manage the New York team, which he accepted and the New York club will hold him to his contract. Moreover, Mr. Hanlon has an option for three years more at the same terms.

Hanlon was seen this afternoon and denied that Freedman has the right to make any such assertions. He said:

"The only contract I have had offered me was made out by John T. Brush last summer while Mr. Freedman was in Europe. It was made out after I had positively stated that I would only negotiate with the New York club on, condition that I was released by the Brooklyn club. I felt and still feel morally bound to that organization until it tells me to go elsewhere. Brush said 'Oh, I can fix that up in a few minutes' and mailed the contract, acting, he said, as attorney for the New York club. The paper is still in my possession, unsigned."

Hanlon received a telegram from President Ebbets of Brooklyn at once.

GRIFFIN VS. BROOKLYN CLUB. Appellate Court Affirms Decision in Favor of the Ball Player. UTICA, Jan. 8 .- The Appellate Court at Rochester yesterday handed down a decis-ion affirming the findings of Justice Scrip-ture in the case of Michael J. Griffin vs. the Brooklyn Baseball Club, in which Justice Scripture awarded to Griffin judgment against the Brooklyn Club for $2,300 plus the costs. The case, which in all probability is ended by the Appellate Court's decision, had its origin in the spring of 1898, when Griffin, origin in the spring of 1898, when Griffin, who had been for years a member of the Brooklyn team, was transferred to St. Louis. Griffin declared that the action of the Brooklyn management was a breach of contract—that he was under contract to play with the Brooklyns for $3.500 a year. The St. Louis club offered him that amount, but would give no guarantee beyond that year. Griffin refused to go to St. Louis and brought action against the Brooklyn management, alieging breach of contract. There is little probability of the case being taken to the Court of Appeals.

TERRY'S NOSE OUT OF GEAR. Pugilist Has a "Deflected Septum" Due to a Blow-Begins Training.

HEMPSTEAD. Jan 8.—Terry McGovern started training here to-day for his fight with Dave Sullivan on Feb. 22 under anything but favorable auspices. There was a north-caster blowing when he arrived this morning, but despite the gale and snow Terry, with Chris Martin, who trains his horses, started on a tramp across Hempstead plains which lasted three hours. After a vigorous rubdown Terry was ready to receive his manager, Sam Harris, his racing partner, Paddy Sullivan, his sparring partner, Danny Dougherty, and Eddy Short. The morning's tramp is all the work he did, as his visitors wanted to look over the new quarters.

tors wanted to look over the new quarters, and a general conference was held.

Terry will not do any heavy work until his nose is attended to, as it is hard for him to breathe. The right nostril is entirely stopped up and the left is partly so. Dr. Gumpa, his physician, says he has a "deflected nasal septum," caused by a blow. Just when he got this blow Terry does not know. He will visit his physician to-morrow and hopes to go to work in earnest next week. Meanwhile he will do light indoor work.

It was announced after the conference that Terry would have the assistance of Jim Mandler, George Dixon and Tim Kearns in his training, besides Dougherty, who, however, will not take a hand in the training until after his fight with Harry Forbes on Jan. 22. McGovern said that Young Corbett's remark that he would give him first chance was very nice, but that it would be nicer and more to the point if Corbett would accept his offer to fight for $10,000.

and by fours the cavalcade of over sixty women and men went through a number of intricate evolutions that compelled very good skill in the saddle. Bays and browns predominate among the horses, which were a very good lot indeed. John Wahl directed the ride, with Fritz Lund as aid. Both are riding masters at this academy.

Among the riders were Dr. and Mrs. Stevendorf, E. Schliefer, P. Babcock, A. Kloh, Miss Emma Wahl, Miss Blair, E. H. Kluge, Miss Boettger, J. E. Tooker, Mr. and Mrs. Woodford, E. B. Sleighers Scurry for Champagne. The snow of yesterday cost Manager Dorval of champagne. Each year it is the custom-to present a magnum to the sleighing party arriving first at the Casino. When the snow began to fall in earnest yesterday the regulars who had an eye to Dorval's magnums began their chase for the wine. A condition at-tached to the Dorval prize is that the snow must remain so that the drive can be duplicated the day after, and the steadiness with which the flakes came down caused Mr. and which the hakes came down coused Mr. and Mrs. Aifred C. A. Baudoine. Mr. Seymour won the fourth magnum. He pulled up in front of the Casino at 12.45 o'clock.

What was truly the first real sleighing of the winter was made possible by the anowfall of yesterday. The "one snowflake and a pile of mud" dashes for magnums of wine was doing. At George H. Huber's place yesterday Dr. Arthur O'Leary was the winner of the wine. He drove his road team to a two-seated sleigh and had with him his daughter, son and a niece. He arrived at the hotel at about 5:30 o'clock in the evening.

On the Brooklyn Boulevard there were a few sleighs out and it was the first day of the winter for George Bader to "give up." His magnum of wine and a whip have been standing offers for years, but this time Bader was lucky. The first sleigh to arrive at his hotel was one containing a man and a woman. The man refused both the whip and wine and refused to give his name or that of his companion. They were strangers to Bader, according to him, and so he saved his wine.

Question of Lessening Distance Ground in Harness Races Considered at Joint Conference of Trotting Associations -Local Reinsmen May Form Club

From 10 o'clock yesterday morning until nearly 8 o'clock in the evening the joint committee of the National and American Trotting Associations and American Trotting Register, were in session at the Murray Hill Hotel behind closed doors. Horsemen lounged about the corridors expecting an invitation to listen. the corridors expecting an invitation to listen, or perhaps participate in the deliberations, and yet no degree of hospitality was offered. Much speculation was indulged in as to what topic along the line of proposed turf reform was being so fully discussed, and each of the committeemen putting in a momentary appearance was buttonholed for a pointer. First whispered that the Brighton Beach plan of racing wherein the non-heat winners went from the race at the end of the third heat was under discussion. Then it became known that the amateur records were under consideration.

After dinner Secretary Gocher appeared and announced that the matters under consideration were not to be made public until his return to the Hartford headquarters, when he would have printed and distributed the developments in their entirety covering the two days' conference. The only resolu tion that passed decisively was the repealing of the rule penalizing matines winners, the measure Harry K. Devereux, President of the Cleveland Matinée Club, and leading amateurs all over the country have so persistently en-deavored to secure. All rules contradictory to the following were voted repealed from and after this date:

Records cannot be made nor bars incurred in trials of speed where there is no poolselling, bookmaking or other public betting on the event, no money competed for, no entrance charged or collected from the competing horses, no admission fee charged to the grand stand or at the gate, or any privileges sold of any kind.

Such performances shall not be considered public races. All rules of these associations, in so far as they may conflict with this ruling are hereby repealed.

they may conflict with this ruling are bereby repealed.

The question of lessening the distance ground to prevent the laying up of heats was considered, and, while Mr Gocher would not decisively announce that it had been accomplished, he gave notice in a way that it was proposed to compromise by making distance seventy and ninety yards. President W. P. Ijams of the American Association wanted the change to be made to forty yards, and J. Malcolm Forbes, President of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, was warmly in support of the adoption of this extreme innovation. Others of the board deemed it inexpedient and partially unjust to make such a change at this time, realizing that if a horse leaves its stride it is almost impossible to get within the flag.

Beyond a doubt associations will not hail with delight the shortening of the distance ground, and it was argued in the corridors that just as they did with the hopples associations in announcing their race conditions, they could reserve the right to go by the old rule. However, if the measure be adopted, it is hard to see just how meetings can be conducted with such violation in any one clause. With the hopples it was far different, the parent associations leaving it optional on the parent associations leaving it optional on the parent for members as to whether hopples were or were not to be tolerated. It was significant, this general desire to see races shortened and the methods of the running turf somewhat adopted, and not a few who chatted on the subject expressed the opinion that from now on, the races must end with the fifth heat.

Few drivers took interest in this conference and so could not be interviewed. As a rule way to to vigorous measures to

Few drivers took interest in this conference and so could not be interviewed. As a rule they favor the Brighton Beach plan, but do not believe in too vigorous measures to prevent laying up of heats. Nor do they favor a shorter distance flag. Mr. Jiams argues that it is a part of the trainer's vocation to so balance and educate his horses as to prevent these standstill breaks and consequent distancing.

INCONSISTENT AND INDIFFER-ENT RIDING," SAY STEWARDS.

Under Contract to Bide for Whitney Next Sesson - Nitrate Wins the Jackson Handleap at New Orleans -A Bad Day for Backers of Favorites.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 8 -A sensation was sprung this afternoon, when the stewards suspended Jockey Harry Cochran for his ride on Amigari in the second race. Cochran has been riding in poor form here of late pulling out of a bunch whenever he got in close quarters and going to the extreme outside, thereby funning whatever chances his mounts had of winning. In any number of races he has gotten his mount of first and taken it to the extreme outside. This happened on numerous occasions when he was riding heavily backed favorites. There has been a great deal of complaining by the public on account of Cochran's riding. No one has charged him with pulling horses. but every one says he is afraid to take a chance. The general opinion among horsemen to-night was that the stewards did right suspending the boy. Cochran is under contract to do the lightweight riding for William C. Whitney next season, at a salary of $10,000 a year. The official ruling in the matter is that, "for his apparent inconsistent and indifferent riding Jockey Cochran is uspended for one week."

Although it was known for some time that

Jockey L. Smith would not be permitted to ride here again this winter, nevertheless, the stewards issued a very lengthy ruling this afternoon, stating that Smith would not be permitted to ride here, and, as far as New Orleans is concerned, his suspension stands. The Jackson Handicap, at a mile and a half, drew a good crowd this afterneon. The stake was worth $1,330 to the winner, and a field of nine went to the post. Petit Maitre was the favorite at 3 to 5, while Nitrate was the second choice, at 16 to 5. There was a long delay at the post, caused by the batrier breaking a couple of times. The field was finally sent away, with W. B. Gates in front. The field had not gone far when Woodtrice raced to the front, with Little Elkin second,

The field had not gone far when Woodtries raced to the front, with Little Elkin second, and the others closely bunched. There was little change in the positions until the stretch was reached the last time, when Nitrate assumed command and in a driving finish managed to win by a head from W. B. Gates and Azim. The latter would have won with a better ride at the finish.

It was another bad day for favorite players, as O'Hagen was the only choice to win. Free Coinage, a good thing, took the introductory event, at five furlongs, from the favorite, Little Jack Horner, who was heavily played. The winner was much the best horse in the race, getting off last and winning in a hard drive by a half length. Little Jack Horner, the favorite, secured a running start, getting fully ten lengths the best of it.

Thre was another delay in the second race, a six furlong dash for three-year-old colts and fillies, caused by the antics of Quixada and Insolence. Crescent City was off in front and showed the way to the head of the stretch, when O'Hagen came with a rush and won by two lengths. Arak, the favorite in the third race, sulked all the way and finished in the ruck. The winner turned up in Ecome, an 8 to 1 shot, who was well handled by Winkfield and just lasted long enough to beat out Miss Soak and Add, 3 to 1 shots, by a short head.

Johnnie McCarty, at 6 to 1, took the fifth out Miss Soak and Add, 3 to 1 shots, by a short head. Johnnie McCarty, at 6 to 1, took the fifth race, at a mile and a sixteenth. Admetus, heavily played, took the closing event in a gallop from Warranted, the favorite. Summaries:
